Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurFalling Uphill by Wendy Nelson TokunagaRuth Fenton is dead, but what does that have to do with me? Thats what Candace Grey, 29, wants to know after receiving a puzzling phone message from San Francisco. A bright, but slightly absent-minded anthropology teacher at a small Michigan college, Candace is all set to leave for Los Angeles to conduct research on 1960s TV star Pamela ParrishAmericas Sitcom Sweetheartfor her Masters thesis on television and female gender roles. But after discovering that Ruth Fenton is a long lost relative, shes first off to San Francisco for her memorial service where she meets a crazy(?) old lady who claims Pamela Parrish didnt commit suicide like everybody saysshe was murdered.

Now Candace has to get to the bottom of it, all while fighting the nagging feeling that her long-time professor boyfriend back home is getting a little too close to one of his students, and at the same time wondering if new-found friend Brandon, a newspaper reporter and budding painter who lives on a hidden stairway street in the hills of San Francisco, is really the guy for her. Its a funny, but moving, uphill climb for Candace who finds that things are rarely what they seem in the ups and downs of love or in discovering a surprising secret about her not-so-perfect mother, or unearthing the truth behind the death of Americas Sitcom Sweetheart.

About the Author: Wendy Nelson Tokunaga is the author of the novels, Midori by Moonlight and Love in Translation (both published by St. Martins Press), the award-winning novel No Kidding and the original e-book novels, Falling Uphill and "His Wife and Daughters." Shes also the author of the nonfiction e-book, Marriage in Translation: Foreign Wife, Japanese Husband. Wendy holds an MFA in Creative Writing from University of San Francisco and teaches for Stanford Universitys Online Writers Studio and for the MFA program at University of San Francisco. She also does private manuscript consulting for novels and memoirs. When shes not busy writing, Wendy loves to sing jazz and Japanese karaoke with her Osaka-born surfer-dude husband accompanying her on keyboards.
