poop for a giant three-headed dog is nobody's ideal career. Biographie de l'auteur Rachel's head is packed with an outrageous amount of useless Disney trivia. She is terrified of thunder, but not of lightning, and often recites the Disneyland dedication speech during storms to keep herself calm. She finds it appalling that nobody from Disney has called yet with her castle move-in date. Originally from Northern California, she has a tendency to move every few years, resulting in a total of seven different states and a six-year stint in England. Currently, she's planning her next grand adventure. Rachel has one heroic husband, two grown kids, a crazy-cat lady starter kit, and an imaginary dog named Waffles. She doesn't have time for a real dog.
